ELECT LORNE CAMPBELL

McGillivray Creek Coal People
Select Him as President and Manager

[From the Nelson News.]

Harry Wright has received word that Lorne A. Campbell, managing director of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, has been elected president and manager of the McGillivray Creek Coal and Coke company, in which the Nelson and many other Nelsoners are interested. J. A. Nowell of St. Paul, late president of the company, has been elected vice-president. These changes in the officers were made at a meeting held at Coleman on Tuesday last.

It is the intention of the company to proceed with the development of the property and the installation of the machinery with all possible dispatch, both of these being well under way at the present time. The election of Mr. Campbell to the position of president and managing director will give general satisfaction to all interested in the company as well as to the general public. Mr. Campbell has made a success of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, and can be taken for granted that he will do the same in regard to the McGillivray Coal and Coke Company.

Lille Jottings

Post office boxes have now been installed here, and have all been taken up, which shows the public appreciation of the same.

Interesting Address Delivered Wednesday

Night.

The Rev. C. D. Campbell, representative of the Canadian Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, addressed a large gathering here on Wednesday evening in the Institutional Church. Over 100 slides were thrown on the screen and explained by the doctor. The reverend gentleman reviewed the importance of the gospel to humanity and quoted numerous statistics of the work of the Society in translating and distributing the Bible in so many different languages and dialects. He stated in part that today the book was being distributed throughout Canada alone in eighty languages, while throughout the whole world it has been interpreted and circulated in over 500 different different tongues. The impression left will no doubt have the effect of enlivening the interest and ensuring their sympathy and support for the cause of this noble organization which today is the only body working single-handed for the spread of the Gospel and extension of Christianity. At the close of the service a local branch of the Society was formed, which will bear the name "Coleman Branch of Alberta Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society."

The agreement holds good until December 31, 1911. The renewal places the P.W.A. in a very strong position and will be of great assistance to the company in fighting American invasion of market.

THE JUVENILE BOSTONIANS

On Saturday the 13th, the Juvenile Bostonians will appear in the opera house. Although the Bostonians have never been here before they have established an enviable reputation which is constantly growing wider and wider. The members are now older than when they passed through the large cities before that their style and playing is vastly improved.

BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE

Next week the initial number of the Blairmore Enterprise and Frank Vindictor will be published at Blairmore. For business and journalistic reasons we feel that the needs of the twin towns can be best served by one new-ly enlarged paper.

The paper will be independent in politics and will stand for a square deal for the Pass.

ALBERTA LIVE STOCK

Alberta has been making such rapid strides as a grain country and Alberta red wheat has won so many prizes in competition against the world, that the impression may have gone out that her prestige as a stock-raising country has diminished. Professor W. L. Carlyle, who has just returned to Calgary from Seattle, where he acted as judge of the heavy horses, says the horses and cattle which he saw on the Alberta ranches beat the world. Professor Carlyle is enthusiastic over the grass-fed steers which were shipped from this province, and states that the fat three-year-old steers, which were shown him in hundreds, weighing from 1300 to 1400 pounds, would take a top price in the Chicago market, and had been fattened on nothing but Alberta grass. He also declares that Alberta could market prime beef all the year round if the ranchers would take up the fat stock in October and feed them during the winter.

The change of diet that comes with spring and summer has the effect on weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended to and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. B. Kellor's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

LORD SELKIRK'S COLONISTS.

They Made Up the Only Utopia Britain Has Ever Had.

"Britain's one Utopia—Selkirk!"—is the theme of Dr. George Bryce's spirited new book, "The Romantic Settlement of Lord Selkirk's Colonists." He has collected the written story of the story with the proposed century in 1912. Everyone who reads his history must have a vivid impression of the founding and settlement of Winnipeg. Dr. Bryce's style is particularly graphic, and he has been at pains to make his history attractive to the average reader. Whenever possible he sets down the recollections of an eye-witness of any event connected with the history of the Selkirk settlement. At the present time he is busy writing a book on the life of Lord Selkirk, but he has conversed with men who remembered him very well and from their description he gives a convincing picture of the Scottish nobleman who could not find his countrymen content away from their native land without founding a new home for them where they would be as happy as they had been in Scotland, and more prosperous. He was tall in stature, thin and refined in appearance. He had a benignant smile, his manner was easy and polite. To the Indians he was specially interesting. They caught the idea that being a man of peace and a lover of peace, he was in some way closely connected with their Great Father the King. Because of his generosity to them in making treaties, they called him the Silver Chief. He was the source of their treaty money.

The writer's powers of description are well-known. There is as well in the book a great deal of vivid Celtic imagination. The landscape is likened to the Tiber and the sufferings of the band of Selkirk settlers, who he disposes of by the hands of the fur traders, are said to be out of all comparison greater than those endured either by the Acadia or the Hudson Bay men. When the historian writes of a buffalo hunt, or the gathering of the fur traders in spring of Seven Oaks, the grasshopper plague, the floods on the Red River, and the long journey of the settlers from Hudson Bay to Winnipeg, he carries his readers along with him as only a writer of imagination and apt pen can do.

He claims for the Selkirk settlement that it held the West for Canada and that no other American colony had such a continuous distressing struggle for existence as these Scottish settlers. It is a heroic story of suffering, conflict and rivalry, of slow adaptation to circumstances when no one had yet learned to conquer, and it is a story which everyone should know.

The Birch Canoe.
"I am dying," sighed the Birch Tree. "My life is nearly done, and of what use have I been to the world? Here I have stood for years, warmed by the sun, bathed in the rain, buffeted by the winds of heaven. What good has it all been—now I am dying."

Through the woods strode a young Indian chief, stalwart and swift of foot, capable and keen-eyed. He gazed wandered from tree to tree as if in search of something, but anon he shook his head; as he came out of the forest he espied the old Birch Tree close to the water's edge. A glint light came into his face, and he cried, "Of the birch tree I will make a boat for my True Love." He cut the tree down and stripped bark and skillfully shaped it into a little craft the like of which no man had ever seen before. A paddle he fashioned out of a bit of the wood of the tree; when the tiny boat floated like a lily upon the water, he clapped his hands for joy.

Then he paddled across the lake to where his True Love dwelt. "See," said he, "I have made a boat to carry burdens, but I have made a boat to carry you." And he lifted her in and they went back together to the root of the old Birch Tree and there they pitched their tent, that every day the spirit of the old tree might see itself in the beautiful new life upon the water.

An Indian Proverb.
A veteran hunter who has spent many years among the Indian tribes in the far Canadian West, speaks interestingly of some wise sayings current among the dusky dwellers in the woodland. One of their proverbs is particularly valuable, because it corrects an ungenerous and too-often quoted proverb among civilized white people. When cruel gossip has caused a lot of talk about some person, we have heard the saying, "There is no smoke without fire." This has been the crutch on which many untrue statements have come on their blighting way. An ill-report against an innocent person has frequently been kept alive by this proverb.

Now the Indians, who keep a keen eye on the forest and possess much knowledge about the elements that town dwellers never acquire, say, in their own terse manner, "Little fire, big smoke, and then apply this to the man who is a mischief-maker. It is a physical fact that slow burning green or wet wood produces volumes of smoke, while dry wood, when burning with a large blaze emits very little smoke. Would not the Indian use of this fact in making a proverb be a wiser and kinder one for us to adopt?"

Daring Naturalists.
Among naturalists who have risked their lives to secure a photograph of a charging wild beast are Mr. Edwin Preble and Mr. Edwin Thompson. Preble, who recently journeyed to the Great Slave Lake. The party consisted of a man, a big, shaggy brute, with wicked red eyes. "Now," said Mr. Preble to Mr. Thompson, "if you'll touch the button, I'll do the rest. He stepped forward, rifle in hand, and Mr. Thompson followed with the camera. The moment the smoke of the shot came, the plucky man waited till he was within fifty yards. Then the camera began to click. At twenty yards Mr. Preble's rifle spoke.

The fierce brute crashed dead at Mr. Thompson's very feet.

Slow Art

"I consider this painting a beautiful piece of work," commented the art dealer, contemplating the portrait of the sleeping canine. "It's a dog after landowner."

"Well, the pup doesn't seem to be going after him very industriously."

Minard's Liniment relieves Neuralgia.

A Scottish farmer was proudly showing a visitor one of his prize sheep. The sheep had recently come into his possession. "Isn't that a grand clobber?" he said. "I bought it at an auction sale in the town, the other day, and got a real bargain."

"Yes; but does it keep good time?" the visitor asked.

"Ah, well, it's not good enough to catch a train or that sort of thing, but good enough to get up to your breakfast."

Getting Sympathy—Young wife (rather nervously)—O cook, I must really say to you. Your master is always complaining. One day it is the soup, the second day it is the fish, the third day it is the joint—in fact it is always something or other.

Cook (with feeling)—Well, mum, I'm sorry for you. It must be quite harmful to live with a gentleman of that sort.

A Pleasant Purgative.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded as to operate on both the stomach and the bowels, so that they act along the whole alimentary and excretory passages. They are not drastic in their work, but mildly purgative, and the pleasure of taking them is only equalled by the gratifying effect they produce. Compounded only of vegetable substances the curative power of these pills is so great that they afford relief without chance of injury.

For nine long years he had been wooing the fair daughter of the farm. "Fannie," he mused, as they sat on the old rail fence, "I read the other day that in a thousand years the lakes of Killarney will dry up."

"O, that," she exclaimed.

"What's the matter, lass?"

"Why, as you promised to take me there on the honeymoon, don't you think we'd better be a little careful that they don't dry up before we get there?"

CURED OF LAME BACK WHEN 24.

Mr. Samuel Martin, of Stratford, Ont., passed twenty years of his life in misery, suffering tortures from Lame Back. He tried nearly all the advertised remedies and household recipes, but received no benefit from any of them.

Some months ago, seeing Gin Pills advertised, Martin purchased a box. The relief, which Mr. Martin experienced, after he had taken one box, was so great that he knew he had found the right remedy at last. He used two more boxes and is now completely cured.

At a small Scottish town served by a branch railway line there arrived a tourist, when the simple attractions of the place failed to appeal. He wandered down to the stationmaster's office one evening and complained of the lack of amusement to be had. "Have you no concerts, or anything of that kind here in summer to help to pass the time away?" "No, was the response, nothing of that kind, but if you come back about eight o'clock you'll see the goods train shunting!"—X.Y.Z.

Pupil—They say Tony's injuries were the result of a practical joke.

Professor—Yes. The chapnies told that a big, burly fellow in the smoking room was deaf and dumb, and Tony walked over to him with a sweet smile and told him he was a really fool.

Pupil—Well?

Professor—The man wasn't deaf and dumb.

The Oil for the Athlete.—In rubbing finer than Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It renders the muscles and sinews pliable, takes the soreness out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for this purpose, and athletes who for years have been using it can testify to its value as a lubricant.

The Joke Editor was puzzled. The Editor of the woman's page was away on her holidays, and he had been placed in charge of her department temporarily. Finally he made a stab at the thing thus:

"Dearest," "No, we would not advise you to serve five o'clock tea in mouseline de soie. Could you borrow a few cups and saucers?"

DOCTORS SAID ONLY ZAM-BUK COULD CURE HER ECZEMA

In view of the numerous cures which Zam-Buk has worked when all else has failed, there is little wonder that in the end the doctor attending Mrs. J. P. St. Denis, of 306 Thompson Street, Winnipeg, should tell her there was nothing but Zam-Buk could cure her. The result showed the far-seeing wisdom of the practitioner, and has been completely cured by Zam-Buk. Mrs. St. Denis gives her experience for the benefit of other sufferers. She says: "Eczema started on one side of my face and nose. At first my nose felt sore, similar to what one feels when having a bad cold. I paid no attention to this, thinking it would pass away in a day or so, but to my surprise it got worse. The nose then became swollen and red, and turned a purplish red, as well as part of the cheek on that side of my face."

"As the swelling developed, pimples and ulcers broke out, then the skin cracked in places and peeled off in flakes, leaving raw and sore raw and sore. This condition reacted on my general health, and I became very ill. I could get no sleep at night because of the irritation and the pain, and my face was in such a shocking condition that for two months I did not leave my room."

"I began to realize," said young Mr. Pop, "that I am no longer a mere youth, now that I've got a little hair on my lip."

"Yes," said Miss Vane, "and I suppose in another month or so you'll have another little one, won't you?"

It is one of the easiest things in the world to convince a coward that discretion is the better part of valor.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (not caused by colds) that cannot be cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"Well, an awful, old chap," said the Front Gate. "I'm off for my vacation."

"Mine is just over," rejoined the Parlor Sofa, with a sigh, "and now I'll have to get busy again."

BETTER THAN SPANKING
Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. M. Fenners, Box W. 77, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money here. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

A Thorough Pill.—To clear the stomach and bowels of impurities and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. The kind that will do this work thoroughly are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are mild and pleasant to take. They can be used without fear by the most delicately constituted, as there are no painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

Mistress—"You seem to want very large wages for so inexperienced."

Biddy—"Shure, mum, isn't it harder for me when I don't know how?"

THE WISE MOTHER
DOCTORS BABY WISELY

Nowadays wise mothers do not dose their children with nauseous, griping castor-oil or purgatives, nor do they give them poisonous opiates in the form of soothing medicines. Baby's Own Tablets take the place of these harsh and dangerous drugs, and the mother has the guarantee of a government analysis that the tablets are absolutely safe, and will cure all stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds and make teething easy. Mrs. Thos. Craft, Buncrath, Man, says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and teething troubles, and know of no other medicine that can equal them. BETTER THAN SPANKING
Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. M. INCORPORATION IN SIGHT

For months the ratepayers and citizens of Coleman have been restlessly waiting for some one to take the initiative and commence operations whereby Coleman would be soon incorporated as a city. At last the help has come but almost too late and at the eleventh hour. We, the editor, kindly stepped down and out for two hours lent our tongue, as it were, for the town's good. It will be interesting to note that we will charge no interest.

Now that the council has been approached in a proper prayer they can proceed to business. (Since writing the above we have heard that the prayer has been answered.)

Now brothers it is not a question of who is going to run or who isn't. It is a straight question of dollars and cents and sense. Should we become a city or a town? You will be asked at the public meeting to vote on this. Orators will stand up before you who have never stood before and harangue on the subject of taxes, which of course will be tiring. Orators will stand up before you and magnify Slav town into a metropolis, which of course will be tiring. Orators will stand up and tell us how a city will be the means of enlarging and populating our city, which of course will be tiring. But none of us will go to sleep. The whole question will be looked at, smelled at, sniffed at and wallowed and in the end we will pass a resolution to proceed with incorporation, which is the only logical solution of the question anyway.

CANDIDATES

The selection of a candidate is a task not only of supreme importance to the party who tenders the nomination but to the people, for candidates may be elected who represent views that are prejudicial to the people and yet on the surface are really representative men. A truly representative man is one who serves both the majority and the minority.

A candidate should reflect the views of his constituents in every move and vote. And in doing this he does not have to lose sight of his own original ideas, they can be moulded with those of his constituents. This is popular government.

Let us presume for a moment that a socialist will be elected in Fernie district. If he goes to Victoria and constantly preaches revolutionary socialism he is untrue to his constituents and misrepresenting the majority of them whom he in reality does not represent. In every three cornered fight there should be a second ballot if a "no majority" is not secured.

In the election at hand in the constituency of Fernie the Liberals have been fortunate to be able to secure a man who is not in the employ of a mastering company or the apostle of revolutionary ideas. He is as close, as any mortal constituency can get, to the ideal candidate and it will be interesting to learn the result of Fernie's opinion. Mr. Fisher is a close student of modern and moderate sociologic ideas and problems and would be a useful man in the legislature. Fernie should elect him.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Even the bluff has to go.

The city of to-morrow. Vote for it.

"November chills blows loud w' angry sigh."

Vote for a progressive city with progressive men.

Save all your eloquence for incorporation or you will be downed.

Don't think because a man wears a red sweater that he is a Socialist.

Some people are asking us to give them a daily paper but we are too weakly.

The crisis in our history is at hand, stand by Coleman and see her advance.

Charles Macnamara has promised not to interfere in municipal affairs—a wise man.

Of course there are some people who are like the worm in the chambered nautilus, they change once a year.

One of the aspirants for the mayoralty has a novel platform, his son was the first man born in Coleman.

The Wage-Earner quotes us at length on the labor question. For all small mercies we have to be thankful.

The District Ledger insults the foreigners in one breath and in the next asks them to vote for Harrington, which of course is quite likely under no circumstances.

FISHER FOR FERNIE

The Labor convention held at Fernie was largely attended by representatives from all parts of the riding. A. D. McDonald, president, occupied the chair. It was unanimously decided to support the Liberal candidate A. I. Fisher. This action, which is extremely commendable, assures the election of Mr. Fisher.

From all parts of the province come reports that the McBride government, once so strong, will have only a dozen members in the next house. Apart from the opposition to the premier on the absurd railway policy, is the old time political jobbery of allowing political partisans to make up the lists. The Liberals have not even a look in on the lists.

A FATALITY AT FRANK

Wilhelmina Muller, the fourteen year old daughter of Henry Muller of Frank, was drowned on Wednesday a week ago. She was presumably carrying water from the pool when it is thought she slipped and fell into the water, as the ground, owing to a heavy rain, was very slippery.

It was some hours afterwards before Mrs. Muller gave the alarm that her daughter was missing. A search party soon found the girl's body at the bottom of the pool.

Coroner Pinkney of Lilloe was summoned, but he decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

WOULD DEMOLISH THE BLUFF

The following gentlemen have sent in their tenders to Edmonton for inspection on the demolition of the bluff: Robert Hogan, W. J. Sanvidge and E. Morino, of Coleman, O. N. Ross, of Fernie.

The tenders will all be returned to the Council when the contract will be awarded.

ALBERTA'S OFFICIAL CROP REPORT

Following is the official estimate given of the year's crop in Alberta. There may be some slight changes when the threshers' returns are made, but so far as known the figures are approximately correct.

Spring wheat, 250,000 acres, 6,250,000 bushels, 25 bushels per acre.
Winter wheat, 80,000 acres, 2,000,000 bushels, 25 bushels per acre.
Oats, 500,000 acres, 20,000,000 bushels, 40 bushels per acre.
Barley, 100,000 acres, 2,500,000 bushels, 25 bushels per acre.
Rye, 1,000 acres, 18,000 bushels, 18 bushels per acre.
Flax, 9,700 acres, 82,500 bushels, 84 bushels per acre.
Spelts, 500 acres, 11,500 bushels, 23 bushels per acre.
Total, 941,200 acres; 90,801,950 bushels.

Over 132,000 copies of the scriptures printed in eighty different languages and dialects, were distributed throughout Canada last year.

TALES OF THE CASCADES

NETHERBY COMES BACK CHAPTER VII

Continued

"Now Netherby," continued the engineer, "you have lifted a great burden from off my shoulders and relieved my family from what might have been many anxious moments. How can I repay you?" "Mr. Jepson, I want no pay, I want only your gratitude. What I did was only what might be expected of any man in a similar position." While Paul was speaking the engineer made out a cheque and handed it to him and at the same time extending a most cordial invitation to Paul to come at his own will to his home. Paul bade adieu a happy man.

CHAPTER VIII

CAMPING NEAR THE SNOW

The light and flimsy beams of sunlight intercepted by scudding clouds cast their rays askance on three conical tents at the top of McGillivray mountain early in the fall. The tents harbored for a time the Jepson family and our mighty Paul. They were seeking rest and seclusion after the summer's work in the mine. The rest mainly was constituted of hunting and climbing. The central tent which was larger than the others was used as a dining-room and library whilst the others were sleeping chambers.

Roseline had now become an expert with the rifle, added not a little by Paul, who naturally was now drawn more closely to the family and one added to the hope of the family. Ever since Paul had freed her father from the poisoning finger a newer and more accessible avenue of travel had been opened between them. It was an avenue that carried a hidden magnetic power uninterrupted. The force of the magnetic lines cast about Paul completely captured and captivated him. His spirit was leavened.

Everything being settled all of the campers except Mrs. Jepson, who good naturedly resigned from hunting, made ready for a grisly bear hunt. Rifles were cleaned and primed, boots were oiled, oil-skin clothes unpacked and provisions stored in small packs. Early on Wednesday morning a start was made.

For nearly four hours the engineer, Roseline and Paul followed an old deer trail up and across thinly wooded gulches and ravines. They ate their noon-day meal around a small campfire which evoked much comment from Roseline. The hunting life was novel and exciting. Another four hours were spent in a stiff stub which brought the party to the head of the McGillivray creek. Here an excellent camping ground presented itself and they pitched their tents for the night. Their only horse was hobbled and left to graze.

Almost an hour before the sun had risen the following morning, the engineer called his daughter to witness the rising of the sun from the top of this towering mountain which lifted its head nine thousand feet above the lake. The first grey light was just breaking on the horizon of an unclouded sky, spreading and scintillating rays were arching out with elvish hands and the tinted ragged edges of the mountain outlines appeared in the distance like gossamers across a fairy cave. Roseline was stupefied.

The crisp air added to the charms of the flood of the scenery. One bold peak that loomed up in the distance shone like a dazzling ruby, as the reflected light broke into its varied colors.

Soon the sun rose and instantly the brilliancy of the snow-clad hills and crags penetrated every ravine and grotto. Far below the lake sparkled like polished silver and the waving evergreens afar down the precipitous slopes freshened and invigorated the the dazzling panorama.

Not more than eight hundred yards from where the engineer and his daughter stood, a sprightly pair of deer appeared at a salt-lick. The slender limbs and graceful forms added a lively touch to the scene and held Roseline entranced. The rising sun was dispelling fast the lustre of the mountain and the engineer led away his daughter. Neither spoke.

After breakfast, Paul appeared, armed to the teeth for a deer hunt. "Well I can hardly say I saw traces, but I can safely say I saw deer." "Where, where, man?" exclaimed the hasty Paul.

"As soon as Miss Jepson has completed arrangements we will spend today hunting as I am very anxious to secure those antlers I saw this morning. But you must remember it will mean a long climb and a long shot." "I think with three thirty-thirties," we ought to bag that game, Mr. Jepson." "It is not so much the rifle as the man, Netherby," replied the engineer. "But I hear you are a sure shot and my daughter also can handle a fire piece."

With enough food for two days the party resumed their hunting-trip.

BLAIRMORE PIONEER PASSES AWAY

Dick Beard, one of the old timers in the Pass passed away Wednesday at the ripe old age of seventy-eight years of usefulness. Dick was a great favorite in the Pass, being well and favorably known throughout the district. He was a great favorite with the children and in his old age devoted most of his time carrying them from place to place. Dick knew more about the farmers townsite case than probably any other living creature in the Pass. He was one of the old timers who assisted in the building of Blairmore's first house which was the subject of long drawn out dispute. Dick looked on through the many years of trouble but even the judge's warrant failed to drag one word out of him. He absolutely refused to speak, gently wagging his head in reply to his inquisitors.

Poor Dick, he has gone now, but no doubt he took comfort out of the thought that he would make some other poor creature happy or trouble. Dick had no insurance on his life, having survived all his friends and relatives he did not feel that he owed anybody anything. He did considerable kicking in his palmy days, but this being quite natural to his kind no one took him seriously. Poor Dick was born at sunrise on the 22nd day of May, 1831, at the Beard Ranch near Pincher Creek, and after spending some eighteen years of his life among the bunch grassers. He emigrated to the Pass, where he had the misfortune of coming in contact with a steam engine which did him considerable injury as well as the killing of his younger and less experienced brother. Dick felt this loss keenly and his big heart could be heard thumping for miles around. Poor Dick's funeral took place at the Beard homestead Thursday. The attendance was the greatest ever witnessed in the old village, all places of business and the public school being closed for the afternoon, and flags could be seen flying at half mast in honor of the departed. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire district goes out to those who mourn their loss. Poor Dick! Farewell! Farewell!
